Family of the Week– Jonathan, Althea & Family

Dear CMF Family,

Life is a whirlwind just now, and it looks like it may remain so for the foreseeable future!

Jonathan continues to work through the many tasks involved in the language project. Hanc has been faithfully present in almost all of it. He is a huge encouragement.

Betsam (a believing psychologist) is planning a week with us later this month. We are praying about which people she visits with me. And we are all praying about the possibility of her moving to this area.

The most recent mind-boggling development in our lives is that we have contract on a house in Harrisonburg!!! I'll save the details for another time, but be praying that between now and closing later this summer, we will trust the Lord, -- either to keep bringing this distant, yet-unvisited home into our possession or to stop it all if He has another plan for us. He seems to be the one who has dropped the property in our laps, and we are very excited at the thought of having a home waiting for us when we come back to Virginia!

As we've been sifting through the possibilities for the coming year, our family has come to unanimous decision to leave Tarr sometime next May. This means we are now in the final count-down. Less than one year left...Keep praying for us as we keep walking through all the "last-times." Even the one who has longed the most to live in Virginia is pretty sure he's going to cry when we leave.

And finally, in light of the coming transition, we have already dived back into school and are barreling through the coming year's work. We are on track to finish early next spring. Attitudes are pretty good so far!

Love,

Althea, for the Bylers
